The Neighborhoods of Ponchartrain Park and Gentilly Woods; New Orleans, LA.

Ponchartrain Park and its neighbor, Gentilly Woods, were hit hard by Hurricane Katrina and its aftermath, and Longue Vue is working with the Pontilly Disaster Collaborative to help residents of both neighborhoods rebuild. To move that initiative forward, the Pontchartrain Park + Gentilly Woods Design Weekend brings together former speakers from Longue Vue’s Catherine Brown Memorial Lecture Series; design educators from Louisiana and afar; students from Louisiana State University, the University of Virginia, Tulane University, and Southern University; residents of Ponchartrain Park and Gentilly Woods; and a wide range of experts, advisors, and advocates for rebuilding New Orleans. Our work will build on the Pontilly Neighborhood Association’s master plan and on research by landscape architecture students at the University of Virginia and Louisiana State University. The goal is to develop specific site design strategies that move the master plan toward implementation.
